Summary of Activity for the Advisor:

1. Use this as an activity in and of itself, or as a way to utilize any time when students are walking somewhere as a group.
2. Have students walk somewhere, in pairs. Instruct them to each teach their partner something about themselves on their walk. They could teach a secret talent, some unique knowledge they have, or something that most people don't know about them.
3. When you reach your destination, call pairs of students to front of the room and have each student teach the group what their partner taught them.
